This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE

For years teachers, principals, superintendents, and school boards everywhere have been wearied by the cry of business men, "The boys that you send to us can't spell." In Cleveland an educational commission of prominent citizens made an investigation in 1906 and reënforced the cry. But two years later, Cleveland girls and boys won their famous victory in the National Education Association spelling contest of 1908. The methods by which the reformation was wrought and the victory won underlie this book, hence its name.

The intensive teaching of two new words daily and the employment of spelling contests, making drill and review effective, are the prominent features that led to success. There is no reason why similar results may not be secured elsewhere by following similar methods, as explained more fully in the following pages.

The course includes six sections, numbered I, II, III, IV, V, and VI. Each section is designed for a year's work.

Grateful acknowledgment is made to the thousand or more Cleveland teachers, from whose grade lists the vocabulary of the Champion Spelling Book has been selected.

Cleveland, Ohio, January 1, 1909.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS

Intensive Teaching. — This book presents about 1200 words each year, and teaches 312 of them with clearness and intensity. Two words are made prominent in each lesson. Their pronunciation, division into syllables, derivation, phonetic properties, oral and written spelling, and meaning, are all to be made clear to pupils. (Full diacritic marking will be found in the alphabetical list at the end of each year's work.) The prominent words are to be used in intelligent sentences made by the pupils. Center your energy on securing mastery of these two words; the eight subordinate words of each lesson are largely review words and not difficult — although you should make sure that the meaning of each is understood. Use the markings only to establish pronunciation; write the word always as a whole, without markings or division into syllables; drill much on enunciation of vowel sounds; establish the power to use the dictionary; frequently make the recitation a combination of oral and written work. These processes contribute much to the plan of intensive teaching.

Systematic Drill. — Systematic review is provided throughout the book. Each of the ten prominent words taught intensively in a week is listed as a subordinate word within the next two weeks; included in a spelling contest at the end of eight weeks; again in the annual contest at the end of the school year; and again as a subordinate word in the following year's work; — used five times, in all, within two years. Eighteen hundred and seventy-two words often misspelled are, in this manner, intensively taught and effectively reviewed.

Spelling Contests. — The contests, when properly conducted, stimulate the schools to their highest effort. They are more effective than the spelling bee, or the spell-down. The contest requires all pupils to write all words given, and in addition all words which the pupils have actually misspelled. After this is done, the papers are collected and the words are spelled orally. Record is made of oral errors. The papers are then marked and teachers report, as follows:

1. Number of pupils enrolled.
2. Number taking part in the contest.
3. The total number of words misspelled in the oral contest.
4. The total number of words misspelled in the written contest.
5. The total number of errors in both.
6. The average number of errors per pupil taking part.
7. The number of pupils making no errors.

The average number of errors is posted in the schoolroom. It may be reported to the principal or superintendent, and comparisons made between the same grades of a building, the same grades of different buildings, the different grades of the same building, all grades of all buildings. Buildings, grades, and schools may learn their rank in the community, and trace the record to girls and boys who are responsible. Thus, all join with the public in a worthy effort for improvement, centering effort on the poorer spellers.

Other Features. — It is important that the dominant plan of the book be followed closely, by teaching intensively two new words daily. The subordinate words will be found arranged in helpful groupings. The supplementary lessons will serve as aids in teaching sounds of vowels, homonyms, rules of spelling, abbreviated forms, suffixes, prefixes, use of hyphens, plurals, dictation work, and word building. The words used in the National Education Association contest are given at the end of Section VI.

Has stood the Test. — This book aims to be a spelling book only. The selection of words, their gradation and presentation; the system of intensive teaching with methodical reviews; the spelling contests; and the supplementary features, — all have stood the test of class-room use.

Suggestion: Spelling papers should be corrected in the recitation period and emphasis given to the correct spelling of the words misspelled. Oral spelling should move with snap. Each pupil should have but one trial on a word. Schoolroom devices which stimulate a keen competition have value, when used wisely. Do not depend upon them exclusively. Teach a little daily, test thoughtfully, drill intensively.

Suggestion: Effective review may be secured by the frequent use of two or three pages of Sections III, IV, and V for oral drill, without previous preparation on the part of the pupils. Note any word misspelled and bring it forward into daily use until its spelling is mastered by all pupils. This follow-up process should be carried out with all words that are misspelled in written work.

Suggestion: Reviews of the supplementary exercises in Sections I, II, III, IV, and V will be of service to pupils. Frequent drill may be needed on some exercises. Much care is required in establishing intelligent use of the dictionary. How many pupils are sure that they enunciate the short sounds of vowels correctly? How many are sure that they recognize these sounds when the teacher enunciates them? Skill in this work will make the teacher effective with her careless, backward spellers. This work should not be spasmodic, but daily.

Supplementary Ex. 3: Dictation

Hence, of all people, children are the most imaginative. They abandon themselves without reserve to every illusion. Every image which is strongly presented to their mental eye produces on them the effect of reality. No man, whatever his sensibility may be, is ever affected by Hamlet or Lear, as a little girl is affected by the story of poor Red Riding Hood. She knows that it is all false, that wolves cannot speak, that there are no wolves in England. Yet, in spite of her knowledge, she believes; she weeps; she trembles; she dares not go into a dark room lest she should feel the teeth of the monster at her throat. Such is the despotism of the imagination over uncultivated minds. — MACAULAY: Essay on Milton.

There are men of esprit who are excessively exhausting to some people. They are the talkers who have what may be called jerky minds. Their thoughts do not run in the natural order of sequence. They say bright things on all possible subjects, but their zigzags rack you to death. After a jolting half-hour with one of these jerky companions, talking with a dull friend affords great relief.

STEPS IN ENGLISH

By A. C. McLEAN, A.M., Principal of Luckey School, Pittsburg; THOMAS C. BLAISDELL, A.M., Professor of English, Fifth Avenue Normal High School, Pittsburg; and JOHN MORROW, Superintendent of Schools, Allegheny, Pa.

Book One. For third, fourth, and fifth years $0.40
Book Two. For sixth, seventh, and eighth years 60

THIS series presents a new method of teaching language which is in marked contrast with the antiquated systems in vogue a generation ago. The books meet modern conditions in every respect, and teach the child how to express his thoughts in language rather than furnish an undue amount of grammar and rules.

¶ From the start the attempt has been made to base the work on subjects in which the child is genuinely interested. Lessons in writing language are employed simultaneously with those in conversation, while picture-study, the study of literary selections, and letter-writing are presented at frequent intervals. The lessons are of a proper length, well arranged, and well graded. The books mark out the daily work for the teacher in a clearly defined manner by telling him what to do, and when to do it. Many unique mechanical devices, e. g., a labor-saving method of correcting papers, a graphic system of diagramming, etc., form a valuable feature of the work.

¶ These books are unlike any other series now on the market. They do not shoot over the heads of the pupils, nor do they show a marked effort in writing down to the supposed level of young minds. They do not contain too much technical grammar, nor are they filled with what is sentimental and meaningless. No exaggerated attention is given to analyzing by diagramming, and to exceptions to ordinary rules, which have proved so unsatisfactory.
